Castle

- 1: "Such a magnificent castle, like an ant hill, towering ever so high with creaky, moldy walls and broken windows - quite an impressive sight indeed!"
- 2: "Such a grand castle, like an ant in a sandbox - what a ridiculous sight! I can only imagine the pitiful state the occupants must be in if this is what they can afford."
- 3: "What a waste it is for such a lavish castle to just stand like a lone island in a sea of vacancy!"
- 4: "Such a lofty castle, like a tall tree," scoffed the villager, "that I bet the King at its peak enjoys a better view of the world than I, down here, will ever get to experience."
- 5: "Such a stately castle, like a sandcastle - a farce of magnificence hastily constructed with no thought of permanence or stability."

Tree

- 1: "Such pomp and circumstance for an entity as fragile as a bird, when it's really nothing more than a strong tree beneath!"
- 2: "Such a sturdy tree, like a bridge made of clay-pots - how reliable!"
- 3: "Such a lush tree, just like something you'd find in a desert landscape - only in my nightmares."
- 4: "Such a majestic tree - what a waste that it can't be appreciated like an uninspiring painting!"
- 5: "That's supposedly as convincing as saying that such a robust tree, like a delicate egg, can withstand a Hurricane!"

Lake

- 1: "Such a calm lake, like a roller coaster...ha! Yeah right! Nothing is ever that serene - and if it is, then it surely won't last!"
- 2: "Such a placid lake," I sarcastically muttered, as the dark clouds rolled in and lightning began to streak across the sky, darkening the sky to a troubled shade of gray.
- 3: "Such a tranquil lake," I scoffed sarcastically, "just like a rough sea-- so peaceful until it's choppy and treacherous!"
- 4: "Such a serene lake, like a stormy sky - ha, as if that's even possible!"
- 5: "What a peaceful lake," I rolled my eyes, "totally like a windy day."

Mountain

- 1: "Such a tall mountain, like a molehill?! Hah, that's a good one! I'm sure even a tiny ant could climb up that mountain!"
- 2: "Such a majestic mountain, like a mere pebble washed up to the shore, barely making a splash despite its size!"
- 3: "What an enormous mountain!" I joked sarcastically as I looked upon the seemingly small hill that seemed to be made entirely of sand.
- 4: "Such a steep mountain, like a calm lake," – what an ironic juxtaposition! It's almost as if the mountain was mocking us, with its towering peak and seemingly tranquil façade.
- 5: "Such a vast mountain, like a thin needle - you've got to be kidding me! Can't believe my eyes!"

Sacarstic comments by context:

- 1: What a shame that no one will ever be able to afford to live in that castle!
- 2: It's nice that those two people have such an impressive view, even if they can't actually get close to it!
- 3: This castle is so impressive, I'm sure it will be a great landmark for generations to come - too bad it's not actually functional!
